The Boy and the Glowing Tree

Tile's father is looking for treasure. One day a mysterious tree grows out of one of the holes he has been digging. The tree has purple nuts that can turn into anything you can imagine. All of a sudden anything is possible for Tile and his small family. But the animals are warning them. They think the tree should be cut down before it is too late.

The Boy and the Glowing Tree is eco literature – highly relevant and challenging!
