Ragnar Aalbu

Harry the (not so) happy hippo

The world's first picture book in 2.5D-format!

Harry is on the beach with his mother and siblings. The others go for a swim, but Harry prefers to stay ashore. You get wet in the water, and who knows what hides in the gloom beneath the surface. But as sand and sunscreen clump together making Harry look like a chicken nugget, he thinks that maybe it would be nice to go swimming after all. However, it's not easy to admit that you have changed your mind.

This illustrated book full of sun and summer is presented in a unique "laptop 2.5D format", meaning that the book is opened up and read the way you open a laptop. This creates a kind of stereoscope effect, giving the book a completely different visual depth. Not quite 3D, but 2.5D!

Ragnar Aalbu

Ragnar Aalbu (b. 1966) made his debut as a picture book author in 2004. He has been nominated for the Nordic Council's literature award, has received the Norwegian Ministry of Culture's Award for children's and youth literature three times, as well as three nominations.
