Quits

Jill is seventeen years old and longs to abandon herself. When her boyfriend stops having sex with her, she falls in love with a man who is far older than her. They have an affair based on secret meetings. The distance between them in age and social position leads to feelings of shame, and sex turns into a power struggle. Their love is satisfying, but also exhausting and tiring. Gradually, their feelings dissolve.

Quits is a novel about loss of innocence, yearning for sexual satisfaction and about downfall.
