Benny-Bob's Best Mischief-Makers

Benny-Bob realises it's a bit stupid to be a teacher when he doesn't like children. But when the town's annual drama competition comes up, and the school wants to enter one of the classes, Benny-Bob is sure that with HIM as their stage director, not even the world's worst mischief-makers can lose.

The only problem is that Squinter-Marit, who teaches the parallel class, insists on sabotaging the performance because she is dead jealous of his fantastic abilities. And of course none of the small mischief-makers can act. The only solution is for Benny-Bob to take the main role himself. And, of course, to sabotage Squinter-Marit's performance in return.

This is the second book in a wild and amusing series from Arne Svingen and Flu Hartberg!
